

Some of the best minds in UK surgery are meeting at Surgical Innovations (SI) today in the annual Clinical Advisory Board meeting.

The surgeons, who are from a range of specialty areas, will discuss SI's newest innovations which are emerging into the medical device market in addition to upcoming ideas. Our existing product portfolio will also be under the microscope as part of SI's continual product improvement strategy.

The meeting is a two-day event which began yesterday and is chaired by Professor Mike McMahon, the co-founder of SI.
